

Middle East Plan Clouded by Dulles

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analysis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles has thrown so much fog around President Eisenhower's program for the Middle East that now it is just about as clear as the ice of a spade in a tunnel. So far the sound effects from this program have been good: the administration did a bangup job in publicizing it. Now it's up to the administration to show what if anything, is behind the sound. This much seems visible. Eisenhower wants congressional authority to use U. S. armed forces in the Middle East, if necessary, to stop a Communist or Communist-inspired attack on a non-Communist country. But that's just one part of the program. These other parts are all clouded over: Eisenhower also wants to give economic aid and military assistance—meaning arms—to nations in the Middle East.

Dulles spent 4½ hours Monday explaining the program to the House Foreign Affairs Committee in public hearing. When he got all through these two questions needed answering: Will the economic aid Eisenhower talks about really amount to much more if any more, than the aid already being given to the Middle East? And will this country really provide any more arms than it has been giving away?

The questions put to Dulles by the committee members in public—no one knows what was said in a secret session yesterday—were neither sharp nor persistent. He'll have a rougher time next week before Senate committees.

This country has two basic programs for providing Middle Eastern countries with arms. 1. Under the mutual security program a nation receiving arms agrees to let in American officers to supervise their use. This ties them in militarily, under this program only three countries in the area—Israel, Turkey and Greece—have received arms.

2. Within limits, the United States sells arms for cash. It has sold very little. Dulles has kept the price high—so high that Egypt bought its arms from Russia—and explains he doesn't want an arms race in the Middle East.

How will the new program change anything? It's hard to see how it will change anything at all. Dulles told the House committee this country will not, under the new program, depart from its policy of not being a "primary" source of arms to the Middle East. This is the picture or part of it, on the economic aid the administration talks of as part of this new program:

The Arab countries and Israel in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1955, received $176,757,000 if Turkey and Greece were added it would be $301,386,000 in economic aid. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956, they received $100,631,600 if Turkey and Greece were added it would be $244,286,000.

But Eisenhower talks of want-

West Europe Welcomes New Doctrine

LONDON (AP)—Western Europe extended a cautious welcome today to the Eisenhower doctrine. But the plan drew sharply divided reaction in the Middle East and Asia and bitter condemnation from Soviet Russia and the satellite.

Official British reaction was limited to welcoming the American concern over the future of the area. The British press thought the plan was too little and too late and said it failed to touch the basic problems of Middle East ferment—Arab nationalism.

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said last night before flying to New York it was too early to make a final judgment on Eisenhower's proposals but "as a whole we like it very much."

"As a matter of fact," Pineau said, "President Eisenhower has now taken up most of the solutions I have been defending for a long time myself."

Moscow radio unleashed a propaganda warfare against the Eisenhower doctrine as concentrated as the venom it hurled in the past on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Marshall Plan.

Most Soviet broadcasts and editorials emphasized the split between the United States and Britain and France and tried to widen it. But broadcasts beamed to the Arab nations took the line that America was trying to replace British and French "colonialism" with U. S. "colonialism."

Spain had no official comment on the plan, but the Catholic morning paper Ya said in Madrid that the plan could bring Russia and the United States face to face "for the clash." But it said the important thing is that "Washington has taken a definite attitude of responsibility towards the fate of the Middle East."

Egypt, Syria, Jordan and other nations liked against the Baghdad Pact were opposed to any form of "intervention." Turkey and the members of the Baghdad Pact warmly welcomed in the Eisenhower doctrine.

Big Offensive Against GOP Urged by Adlai

WASHINGTON (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson called today for a four-year "sustained offensive" by the Democrats against the Republicans in an effort to win back the White House.

Stevenson, the 1956 Democratic presidential nominee, said in an interview he believes the best way to get ready for the 1958 and 1960 elections is for Democrats in and out of Congress to work together. "We must have a sustained offensive throughout the next four years and that is the best way to get it," he declared. "We must have a broad base of operations from which we can bring in governors, mayors, and other officials as well as members of Congress."

Stevenson said he will continue to be active as a member of the party's policy advisory committee which patched up its surface differences with Democratic leaders of Congress in a weekend meeting here.

Speaker of the House Rayburn and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate's majority leader, met with the committee and said later they will welcome advice from the party group, although the two Texans stuck by their previous decisions not to become members of it.

Stevenson said he thought there had been a "misinterpretation" of

Clinton Case Presented in Fair Manner

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—The citizens of Clinton, Tenn., must be very pleased this week with the fair presentation of their community problem on television by See It Now (CBS-TV) Sunday.

The staff gathered by Edward R. Murrow and Fred W. Friendly for See It Now is unsurpassed in the art of television interviewing. In Clinton they used to fullest advantage the technique of the camera closeup on people of troubled spirit. The result was superb; it was the finest hour of television journalism in many months.

See It Now did not attempt vast generalizations on the complex problem of integration. It simply focused on Clinton and let its citizens speak for themselves. The people phrased the problem eloquently. In the words of one young businessman: "We're no longer concerned whether you are for or against segregation; we're just concerned with whether you're for or against the law."

The story unfolded in its truthful essence; those who though possibly disagreeing with the law in some instances, nevertheless would uphold it; and those who would subvert the law. Dangerous fools damn themselves from their own mouths. There have been few more chilling moments on television than the prolonged closeup of the Northern rabble-rouser, John Kasper, sneeringly condemning the President of the United States and his recent Democratic opponent and calling the Supreme Court a bunch of Communists.

More moving than any staged dramas were the forthright simple accounts of events by the Clinton high school principal the Baptist pastor who was beaten up by a gang of sub-citizens, the Negro who was moving his family to Los Angeles with no hatred in his heart for Clinton, the high school football captain who believes in law and order, the woman at the parent-teachers meeting who explained the emotional confusion of Clinton youngsters, the school board chairman who would rather lose his means of livelihood than submit to mob rule.

This was America speaking eloquently. It would be good if Americans everywhere could have seen it.

Will Confer on New River Bridge

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Arkansas highway officials left today for a conference at Jackson, Miss., tomorrow on a proposed new bridge across the Mississippi River at Helena, Ark.

The structure would cost an estimated 13 1-3 million dollars. A recent study showed that traffic over the bridge would support about an 8 - million-dollar bond issue.

Arkansas has agreed to provide two million dollars and Mississippi one million dollars to reduce the bond issue burden. But rising costs have dimmed the outlook for financing the span.

Highway Director Herbert Eldridge said both states would try at tomorrow's session to avoid indefinite postponement of the project.

Chief Engineer Ward Goodman and four members of the Arkansas Highway Commission accompanied Eldridge today. Miss Willie Lawson, whose commission term expires Monday, stayed at Little Rock.

There are no Mississippi River bridges between Memphis and Greenville, Miss.

The advisory group's role and how they could work closely with the congressional leaders without undue friction.

"It never was the intention of the committee to try to tell the members of Congress what to do," he said.

"Where did you get that gun?" She heard her daughter scream just before the bullets were fired. Mrs. Bruyer said her daughter and Steele had dated since last May until shortly after the fall semester began. She said they once had been engaged for about a week before they broke up.

Mrs. Bruyer said Steele had come to the home early in the evening for a visit with her daughter. She said immediately after the shooting she called police and their pastor, the Rev. Hugh Wolf who was the first to arrive on the scene.

Father Wolf said Miss Bruyer repeatedly had rejected Steele's proposals of marriage. He said he had been counseling Steele for some time. The pastor said the young man had always seemed "crazy" although he once threatened the girl and her mother during an argument.

Miss Bruyer's sister, Elaine, a university freshman said Steele had abused Joan on several dates and Joan decided to break off the romance with Steele because he was "getting a little rough."

Steele's father, Dr. D. S. Steele, a suburban Minneapolis veterinarian said the youth had undergone mental treatment several years ago at the University of Minnesota hospital in Minneapolis.

A spokesman for the dean of men at the University of South Dakota said the school had sent Steele home shortly before Christmas with a letter suggesting medical treatment.

"Even so," the report said, "the 13½ billion dollars of new private housing put in place in 1956 was second only to the extraordinary volume of the previous year."

"The comparatively high level of home building in 1956 reflects in part the continuing pressure of a sustained demand for larger and better equipped homes backed by rising incomes; a steadily increasing and highly mobile population; and accelerated rehabilitation of urban centers."

Virtually all categories of private construction activity gained in 1956 other than housing, farm construction and hospital building.

Private construction expenditures combined totaled $30,800,000,000 in 1956 only a little above the record, 1955 figure. But public construction rose 8 per cent to a new high of $134,000,000.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) The Orleans Parish School Board will argue tomorrow who support of a new brief in its fight to keep segregated schools maintaining "there would be no orderly administration" if it had no power to assign pupils to schools.

The brief filed before the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals holds such power is not legislative, but "is a routine function or mechanical detail that any school superintendent or school board must perform."

The school board filed an earlier brief in appealing a decree by District Judge J. Skelly Wright ordering integration of public schools.

Boy Friend's Buddy Tags Along on Dates

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm 29 and my boy friend is 34. He has a friend who has been a buddy to him for many years. They always spent New Year's Eve together. When I entered the picture three years ago, we went out as a cozy threesome.

This year I decided we should have this special occasion to ourselves. My boy friend, Irwin, agreed, but on New Year's Eve, both men turned up.

I hate to be mean, and I like this friend very much but just don't want him around at all times.

ALMA P.
Dear Alma: I agree with you. "Two is company; three is a crowd," especially on New Year's Eve. If you two have matrimonial plans, the buddy will be partly excluded from your social lives someday, so he may as well start now. Encourage him to make new friends, especially girls. He's too dependent on you people for company. It's high time he made his own social life.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I married a man whose wife divorced him so we could marry. She said I could have him with her blessing. Naturally, I attributed her attitude to sour grapes, but now know exactly what she meant.

He's a nagger, de luxe. He tells me I'm a failure as a wife, says he never should have left Lorna, who gave him understanding and encouragement (he says) and seems to want mothering more than anything else. I think he'd like to go back to Lorna, but she seems well satisfied to be rid of him.

S. W.
Dear S. W.: Well, looks like you're stuck with what you've got. At least, until some other glib gal falls for his charm and takes him off your hands. Maybe he needs adoption more than marriage.

Dear Dorothy Dix: For three months Bruce and I dated, but he never suggested that we go steady. During the holidays an old friend

Around the World

STRASBOURG, France (UP) — The Hungarian revolution a y council, a newly-formed organization of refugee freedom fighters, promised today to work "by peaceful means" to make Hungary a Socialist democracy.

The council composed of political and military leaders who fled their homeland during the Hungarian rebellion, flatly rejected the "dictatorship of the proletariat" announced Sunday in a Soviet-stamped, defiant proclamation by Dictator Janos Kadar.

The refugee council ended a three-day meeting here with a pledge of full support for the reform program of former Hungarian Premier Imre Nagy, whose government fell before invading Russian tanks last fall. The leaders in exile called for establishment of a fully democratic regime, a "neutral" Hungary and complete independence for the still-titled nation.

On the key question of cooperation with political figures who fled Hungary after World War II, the council agreed to work with "democratic elements" of what is known as the "old emigration." Among this group were former Hungarian Premier Ferenc Nagy and former Minister to France Paul Auer, both of whom attended the Strasburg meetings and were accepted as members of the revolutionary council's executive committee.

ROME (UP) — Scottish painter Leonard Boden — A Protestant — conferred with Vatican officials today to learn if Pope Pius XXII will pose for the finishing touches on a huge nine-by-six foot portrait.

Boden, commissioned to paint the portrait by St. Peter's church in London, has been working on it since last May, using sketches made during previous audiences with the pope.

LIMA Peru (UP) — The government prepared today to distribute 137,000 tons of American foodstuffs among thousands of drought-stricken families in southern Peru.

The United States donated 47,000 tons of food, including wheat, barley, corn, whole wheat flour and dried milk and Peru bought another 90,000 tons of wheat, barley and corn.

RIO DE JANEIRO (UP) — Brazil's plans to call its projected new capital "Brasilia" faced possible revision today.

Officials of the city of Brasilia, in Minas Gerais state, brought legal action to prevent use of its name. Federal law prohibits use of the same name by two communities.

The old Brasilia, founded in 1842, has 40,000 population. The projected new one is provided for in the 1948 constitution and was given its name by Congress last year. The government expects to transfer the capital from Rio to the new site inland some time this year.

SAIGON, Indochina (UP) — South Viet Nam is wiping out the last traces of Bao Dai, the Riviera playboy emperor who was voted off his throne in 1955, it was disclosed today.

President Ngo Dinh Diem who defeated the French-supported emperor in a referendum to determine South Viet Nam's chief of state, has ordered all remaining paper currency bearing Bao Dai who ruled most of the time from the Riviera has his picture on bills of four denominations.

No official statement was issued either on the fact that the Cosmetology Board is under scrutiny or on the subject of the interim report.

The jury adjourned until Feb. 5 after a 5-hour session yesterday. Jury Foreman Walter E. Loke was to deliver the report to Circuit Judge William J. Kirby.

Auditor Orvel M. Johnson of the Legislative Audit Committee reported a shortage of $2,077 in Cosmetology Board accounts last September. Johnson said that an additional $13,400 in checks and cash disappeared and then reappeared during his investigation.

Gov. Orval Faubus then ordered the records sent to the Grand Jury.

The jury heard seven witnesses: Johnson; Mrs. Lucille Hardy, state inspector for the Cosmetology Board; Orville Williams, another audit committee auditor; Mrs. Anna Cameron, former director of the Cosmetology Board staff; Mrs. Gladys Donahay and Mrs. Mary Clopin former board employees; and Bill Bullard, an agent for Actna Life Insurance Co.

The four women were fired by the board, but Mrs. Hardy was reinstated.

New Fashion for Women's Suits Shown

By DOROTHY HOE
AP Women's Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — The cutaway jacket takes on feminine airs in the spring collection of Ben Zuckerman, maestro of tailored suits, shown today to some 250 fashion editors of newspapers throughout the country here for a concentrated briefing on what American women will wear this spring.

Zuckerman's cutaways unlike their masculine counterparts, are brief, usually unfitted and more aptly described as "curveway." They are hewn with slim skirts and coordinated blouses often dotted, usually matched to the coat lining. And they often reveal handsome leather belts snuggling in the skirt waistline.

This spring, Zuckerman slays navy as his top color, often going positively nautical with brass buttons and sailor collars. Next in preference are white tweeds with gold link belts, medallions and buttons. After that come a full range of grays, beige and pastel tues some with belted and bloused jackets, some with tunic skirts.

Alfreda-Visoni likes the silk suit for spring showing it in many versions, all with soft, feminine touches and gently curving but unstrained lines. Skirts achieve walking ease by means of low-placed back pleats panels and pique-tops. A highlight is a lady-like little suit in burnt-belted aw silk with jewel buttons, skinkam detail and pleasantly curved look at bosom and hipline.

Jo Copeland, the all-American designer credited with inventing the cocktail suit, also goes in heavily for important and expensive suits this season.

UC Looking for a New Coach

heads the list of possibly successors to Lynn (appy) Waldorf as football coach at the University of California; the San Francisco Examiner said today.

The Examiner's Don Selby said in a front page story that the list of candidates for the California job has been narrowed to three, with one preferred.

He said the close observers at Berkeley were almost unanimous in the opinion that Daugherty is the man.

Without naming his sources, Selby said that California is prepared to go as high as $20,000 to obtain its choice.

Waldorf was receiving $17500 when he resigned after 10 years at the UC helm.

Selby said negotiations for California's new head coach are being conducted by Executive Director Paul Hastings and Athletic Director Greg Engelhardt at the American Coaches Association meeting in St. Louis.

Fighter Charged in Fatal Accident

NEW YORK (H) Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, No. 1 heavyweight boxing contender who fatally injured a pedestrian with his auto, was arrested last night on a charge of forging a driver's license.

The 26-year-old Negro boxer was held overnight in a police station detention cell pending arraignment today in Foley Court.

The man he struck, Charles Balga, 60, died yesterday in a Queens hospital. He was hit Monday night while chasing his dog across a street in Edgemere Queens.

At that time police gave Jackson a summons charging him with driving without a license. A license he showed, purportedly a chauffeur's license, was reported to be partly illegible. Police said Jackson had not been driving recklessly.

Police said they checked the Motor Vehicle Bureau and found that no chauffeur's license had been issued to Jackson. Police had no information on hand as to why Jackson should have to forge a license.

No vehicle homicide charge was lodged.

Bethes Favored in Fight Tonight

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (H) Heavyweight Wayne Bethes, who lost a decision to Zora Folley in New York last month is nevertheless a 7-5 favorite to win their rematch tonight.

They meet in the Syracuse War Memorial Auditorium in a 10 rounder that will be televised nationally (ABC) starting at 8 p.m. (CST).

Both fighters are 24 and, with Harold Carter and Eddie Machen, have been mentioned as possible opponents for heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson.

Bethes of New York, weighs 200 and has won 12 fights, six of them by knockouts.

Folley of Chandler, Ariz., is expected to weigh in at 192. He has a record of 27-2-1 including 18 knockouts.

Cage Twins Just Confuse the Viewers

By TOM DYGDARD
Of The Associated Press

When the Pine Bluff Zebros and the Fort Smith Grizzlies play their basketball games, and especially when they play each other, somebody is bound to get confused.

Chances are, however, that it will be the spectators and not the players who walk out cross-eyed after trying to separate the twins on the two teams.

Other teams seem to have no trouble keeping the Williams twins separated when they play Fort Smith and keeping the Benton twins in different slots when they play Pine Bluff.

A good guess would be that the opponent is using a zone defense which most of them do today, and it wouldn't matter if all five players on the Fort Smith and Pine Bluff teams looked alike. Or, the defender in a man-to-man operation keeps his eyes on the chest numbers and wouldn't notice if one or both the twins were wearing identical uniforms.

Each coach, Jerry McFarland of Pine Bluff and Gayle Kaundart of Fort Smith — says he has no complaints from opposing coaches whose boys did a fine job of double-teaming, one twin while the other went wild. And each says his boys had no trouble when the twinned teams ran into each other for the first time in the Big Eight pre-Christmas tournament, Pine Bluff won 58-51.

Pine Bluff's twins, sons of football great Jim Benton, are Jim and Bobby Benton.

The Fort Smith twins who married the half-back positions for the Grizzlies football team are Jarrell and Darrell Williams.

No two things in this world are identical, despite what the guy in the top row with a box of popcorn may say the first time he sees the Bentons of the Williamses move down the court.

Jim Benton, at 6 feet 3 1/2 inches, is about one inch taller than brother Bobby. Jim is the better jumper. Bobby is the faster by a mile, and possibly the better man on defense. Jim is the better driver but Bobby probably is more action on the field. Both have been in double figures in the scoring consistently this year. Both are quick.

Those are the differences and similarities McFarland sees in the footprints of their dad, each taking an end position on the football team, until they were cut down by injuries. Jim's collarbone was broken and Bobby has trouble keeping his right shoulder in place.

The Williams twins at Fort Smith are smaller than the Benton twins but no less identical. They, too, are separated by about one inch. Darrell is the taller at 5 foot 11 and is a little heavier than his brother.

"There's a lot of difference when you know them," Kaundart said, "and I don't think even opposing team shaves too much trouble. I guess they go by the numbers." Jarrell is the faster man in track, a good starter, but Kaundart hedges away from saying which is speedier on a basketball court.

Harvard Is Looking for New Coach

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (H) Harvard joined a half-dozen other major schools in search of a new football coach today after terminating Lloyd Jordan's seven years with the university.

Speculation as to a successor, which once centered on backfield coach Harold (Josh) Williams, ran in all directions.

The university's one-on-one search committee of Jordan made no mention of a replacement.

Although the 56-year-old former president of the American Football Coaches Association learned of it last Wednesday the decision was not official until yesterday.

Athletic Director Thomas Bolles undoubtedly is shopping for candidates in St. Louis this week, where he is attending the NCAA Coaches' Convention. Jordan, also there, is seeking work.

Campus criticism and reported friction on the coaching staff were believed to be factors in releasing Jordan two years before his contract had run out. He is expected to be paid from 20,000 to $25,000 to cover the balance.

Jordan came to Harvard in 1950. His teams won 24 games, lost 31 and tied 3. In '56 Harvard had a 2-6 record in the first official year of Ivy League grid competition.

Jordan, reached in a St. Louis hotel, repeated an earlier statement that he had no ill feelings.

"The best success to my successor," he said, "I enjoyed working with many nice people at Harvard, especially the football squad."

Jordan's farewell at Harvard came only a few hours before Warren Woodson resigned at Arizona.

Five of Arkansas former Governors were born in December — James S. Conway, Daniel W. Jones, Thomas C. McRae, Tom J. Terral, John E. Martineau.

NCAA Doesn't Plan to Soften Any Probations

ST. LOUIS (H) The National Collegiate Athletic Association has indicated it doesn't plan to soften its penalties against member schools put on probation for infractions of the recruiting rules.

Walt Byers executive director, said last night the 18-man NCAA Council hasn't discussed and does not plan to discuss any changes in its basic penalty structure.

The council has been meeting in connection with the NCAA's 51st convention, which opened today.

The Byers statement seemed to squelch the hopes of schools on probation in the Pacific Coast Conference that the ban on their participation in NCAA events might be softened.

The Pacific Coast Conference last week modified its own penalties against Washington, California, Southern Cal and UCLA limiting their application to football.

But the schools still are barred from 27 postseason tournaments and other events either sponsored or blessed by the NCAA.

Coaches generally have joined in a plaint that basketball teams and track stars would not be penalized for recruiting violations by the football staff.

The NCAA position has been that a school has "institutional responsibility" for all its athletic departments and all of them must bear the brunt of penalties.

The council did lift yesterday the probation which has barred Miami, (Fla.) University from NCAA events for two years.

Rumoring about football coaching jobs was the main sport as athletic officials gathered for the convention.

The grapevine had it that Pete Elliott of Nebraska is ticketed to go to Washington which recently lost Darrell Royal to Texas.

Bill Orwig, athletic director at Nebraska, said he was worried about the possibility of losing Elliott who has been at Nebraska only a year after assisting Bud Wilkinson at Oklahoma.

One rumor predicted Bill Jennings, another former Wilkinson assistant who went to Nebraska with Elliott, will be the next head coach at Nebraska.

Frank Broyles assistant coach at Georgia Tech, was rumored to be the leading candidate to succeed Don Faurot, retiring at Missouri. But several others still figured in the Missouri rumors.

Among them were Charles Moser of Abilene Tex., High School and Bill Bengtson, a former Faurot assistant now with the San Francisco 49ers.

The rules committee of the American Football Coaches Association agreed to recommend to the NCAA rules committee some liberalization of the present regulations on substitutions. It reported it was satisfied on the whole with the present rules.
